San Ysidro, CA

Eleven Western Builders, Inc., a general contractor based out of Escondido, CA, announces the opening of the Willow School in the San Ysidro School District. On August 19, 2010, school district officials and EWB personnel gathered for the ribbon-cutting ceremony to present the new school to the city of San Ysidro.

Originally built over half a century ago, the newly remodeled pre-kindergarten thru eighth grade facility now boasts four brand new two-story classroom buildings, a library, multi-purpose building, full cafeteria and kitchen, as well as a two-story administration building. The school also offers its incoming students state of the art computer equipment and an education with an emphasis on technology. Construction has been continuous for the past two years and this August, new and returning students will enjoy a total of 44 new classrooms, a turf soccer and baseball field and several new pieces of playground equipment. District Officials believe that the school is one of the finest constructed elementary schools in Southern California.

Vern Alderton, EWB Project Manager said of Willow School, "It really is a jewel in the community. Eleven Western is happy to offer this quality construction to our clients. We had a great team and HMC really did a nice job." EWB personnel that worked on the project are Vern Alderton, Kristi Snell, Cheryl Viereck, Ashley Alderton, Dennis Hernstrom, Derek Hernstrom, DJ Mason, Sarah Mason and Sean Backus. Special thanks to Dave Medcalf, Tom Silva and Eric Hall.

As published in the San Diego Union Tribune, the San Ysidro School District paid for the Willow School reconstruction with funds from the Proposition C bond measure passed in 1997.
